The War Bogun! Tuespar. 4 o'clock A. M ) Nov. 27, 1855.

The above item of new was published in our issue of Saurday lact.

The meeting of the cicizens alluded to convened on the ground where the murder was committed, and enquired into the facts at length. The proof corrobocold-blooded murders on record had been committed by F. N. Coleman as principle, abetted by Horous, Bu kley, Jos. Mondy, and Wagoner as accessories A series of resolves were passed committee of vigilance was appointed to investigate the facts still further to search out the offenders, and devise means to bring them to justice. Coleman and his party had fied.

The meeting continued in session a late hour and adjourned. Retween the hours of nir o'clock in the evening of Monday, Mr. Jones, the Sheriff of Douglas county. who received his appointment from the bogus Legislature, attended by a posse of fourteen others, visited the house of Jacon Branson, and arrested him for security of the peace, on the oath of couple of the abettors in the above transaction. Mr Jones did not read, or even make Mr. B. acquainted with the character of his warrant, but told him he must go with him in mediately, or he would from deserved punishment, or to resist blow B to bell in a minute.

Mr. BRANFON lives near the sce the late murder, and Mr. Dow made it his lome at Mr. B's house: This is probably the highth of his offending.

The posse, with Mr. Branson, proceeded towards Lecompton, via Blanton .-lowed him, and by a nearer route headed them near J. B. Abbott's house, in Blanton. There were but fitteen of the rescuers. They threw themselves across the road, and requested Branson to leave the party. He did so, although ordered to remain with the posse, or he Jones dispatched an express to the
